Board of Directors, and the Rockcastle community toward sustainable community development.

LEAP is a grassroots, community-based cooperative with 230 members, located in Rockcastle. LEAP's mission is to improve the well-being of low-income citizens residing in Rockcastle County by implementing development programs to alleviate poverty. Programs initiated and supported by LEAP have included the Countryiste Crafters, which has provided an outlet for local raraters to market their crafts; the Farmer's Market, which assists small farmers to grow and sell their produce, with the long-term goal of helping farmers switch from reliance on tobacco growth to alternate produce; the garden seed program which helps: LEAP's members obtain seed and seed polatoes at the beginning of each growing season; at Helfer Project International; Golden Kentucky Products, which was designed to allow the women employees to work into ownership of the business.
