

Continuous Sign-Up for CRP

Landowners can sign-up for the Continuous Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) at their local USDA Service Center with the Farm Service Agency (FSA).

Program rules have been streamlined and enhanced compared to rules in the general sign-up CRP. Most times, the waiting period for approval is minimal. Enhancements consist of additional economic incentives and updated rates.

"To participate in the continuous sign-up, landowners must meet certain eligibility requirements," says Randall Templeman, District Conservationist with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Rockcastle County/Mt. Vernon. "Cropland is eligible, even if it is classified as being 'highly erodible.' However, cropland must have been planted or considered planted in an agricultural commodity during two of the last five years.

"As long as land being offered meets program requirements and includes eligible buffer practices, cropland can be approved," said Templeman. "On top of everything else, landowners can benefit from additional program incentives."

Extra financial incentives are available when landowners agree to install certain Continuous CRP practices. In Kentucky, eligible practices include filter strips, grassed waterways, contour buffer strips, riparian buffers and shallow water areas of wildlife.

Continuous CRP contracts last 10 to 15 years, depending on the applied practices. Contracts will include cost-share payments up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing permanent cover and other eligible components. Cost-share payments are made when approved practices are completed. Annual rental payments are made after October 1, each year of the contract period.

NRCS provides technical assistance to landowners who participate in CRP. USDA agencies are co-located at your local USDA Service Centers throughout the state. For more information contact Randall Templeman, at the USDA Service Center, located on Hwy. 150, Mt. Vernon, or call 606-256-2525 Ext. 3.
