In Loving Memories

In Loving Memories of

All My Family
By Lora Westerfield Hamilton
Oh listen to what I hear.
And look what I see.
Momma and Daddy are marching down the street.
All the angels are anxious to see.
Christ is standing there with his purple robe.
All dressed in their wedding gown.
Everone is ready to go.
They all come out.
They started to shout.
They weren't about to turn back.
They all started to sing Beulah Land.

They saw Christ nail stained hands.
The gates come open and they heard him say, Come on in to the wedding supper. I prepared it for all.
Walk right in and dine with me.
You all are set free.
As all the angels started to play their harps.
The little angels were so small.
Their golden crown up on their heads and golden sashes on their little feet.
And oh, how sweet!
As Dad and Momma started to look all the family were standing by.
There was one missing.
But I will be there soon.
