which they should improve in the next two years. "The ultimate goal of the state is for everyone to reach 100 by the year 2014," she said.

Mrs. Cash said that monetary rewards will still be given to schools that show improvement every two years, but that the money will go directly to the school for instruction purposes and not to staff members at each school as in the past.

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond said he was very pleased with the scores. The Superintendent said he thought the positive test results were the combination of hard work by ev-everyone involved, from the school board and administrators, to teachers, students and parents.

"It is a collaborative effort by everyone involved, you simply can't point out one person or one thing," he said.

"We will continue to work hard every year in an effort to give students in this county the best public education has to offer," he said.

the grand jury because it is a closed proceeding," said Commonwealth Attorney Eddy Montgomery.

"I can tell you that the murder case against Davey Stewart is continuing and that a murder indictment against him will be sought at a later date," Montgomery said.

Stewart is being held in the Madison County jail on criminal charges in that county and on Friday his bond for the Rockcastle County indictment was set at $250,000 cash.

Jason Paul Northern, 22, of Livingston was indicted on a charge of receiving stolen property. He is accused of having a boat owned by Claude Hensley in possession on June 9, knowing it was stolen.

Northern was also indicted on another charge of receiving stolen property. He is accused of having property belonging to Mika Arnold in possession on August 27, and knowing it was stolen. He was also indicted on a charge of second degree escape.

Daniel Blackburn, 29, of Livingston, was indicted on a charge of receiving stolen property. He is accused of having stolen tools from his brother David, in his possession. Glenn Miller, 37, of Nicholasville and Rodney D. Benedict, 38, of Campbellsville were indicted on a charge of burglary.

They are accused of breaking into a building owned by Danny McKinney on September 24.

Stephanie Saylor, 36, of Mt. Vernon was indicted on two drug charges.

She is accused of cultivating marijuana over five plants and possession of processed marijuana on February 15.

Amanda G. Spoonamore, 21, of Mt. Vernon was indicted on a charge of second degree burglary. She is accused of breaking into the home of Linda Richeau on August 4.

Mitchell M. Durham, 22, of Sand Gap and Jerry Ray Durham, 18, of Fairborn, OH, were indicted on two counts each. One a burglary charge and the other a theft by unlawful taking charge.

They are accused of breaking into the home of Jeremiah Lane at Morrill on August 23 and taking a handgun belonging to his dad, KSP Detective Gary Lane.

William D. Campbell, 43, of Broadhead, was indicted on two charges involving sex with a minor. He is accused of sodomy and sexual contact with a person under twelve years old.

Karl Pittman, 27, and his wife Laurie Pittman, 23, of Mt. Vernon were both indicted for an August 13th incident.

Both were indicted for second degree assault and possession of a handgun by a convicted felon. The case records indicated that the Pittmans are accused of assaulting each other.

James Aaron Amyx, 23, of Broadhead was indicted on five counts. He is accused of sexual contact with a minor on five different occasions.

Benjamin Scott Price, 28, of Mt. Vernon was indicted on one count of possession of a controlled substance. He is accused of having illegal drugs in his possession on November 7, 1997.

New Law

fenses, their jail time can be doubled," Burdette said.

"I was particularly happy to see harsher penalties for refusing a breathalyzer test," Burdette said. "Before this change, it would actually benefit a repeat offender to refuse the test. By law, the punishments for refusing a breathalyzer test were lower than the those for a DUI conviction. Repeat drunk drivers who know the system had no reason to consent a test. Without a test, we had no evidence to convict. This new law takes care of that."

The new law also gives judges the option of increasing license suspension time and making use of interlock devices possible.

In some DUI cases, the judge orders the automobile's license plate to be removed. According to the new provisions, interlock devices may be used in lieu of taking the license plate. Before these vehicles can be started, the driver must blow into the interlock device, which measures the BAC level through the driver's breath.

"The vehicle owner must pay for the purchase and installation of an interlock device, which can be quite expensive," Burdette said.

All vehicles that are licensed in the name of the person convicted for DUI. This includes vehicles used for business purposes, as may be the case with a sole proprietorship or partnership. It would not apply to vehicles owned by a corporation.

With the reduction in this minimum BAC, tougher penalties for aggravating circumstances and the closure of loopholes, Burdette said Kentucky has come a long way in toughening DUI laws.

"Our legislators took a big step in cracking down on DUI in our communities," Burdette said. "I was encouraged by their support and assistance in helping us prosecute DUI more effectively."

It has been reported that the United States Congress will enact a Federal 0.08 standard for all states to adopt. President Clinton is expected to sign off on such a law. Kentucky became the 19th state to adopt the 0.08 standard.

Statlers

lions of records and have received national and international acclaim as one of the finest vocal groups in country music today. Remarkably, fame, success and the adulation of millions of fans have not turned the heads of the Statlers, who remain true to their values and faithful to their hometown of Staunton, Virginia.

The rising Southern gospel harmonies and solid country themes this Grammy Award winning country quartet opened ears and doors.

The Statlers can be credited for bringing the small town into country music. They succeeded in steering small town, middle-class America into the country tapestry. Their songs are about small town life, lost love, missed opportunities and those dream generating events of childhood that changed us forever.

The Statlers sing America's songs. Whether it be about love or growing up in small town America, they have sung the sentiments of ordinary folks for over a generation. In the process, they harmonized their way to superstardom.

It's been 35 years since they released their first number one single, "Flowers on the Wall," and Statlers are still recording, still performing, still touring and still pleasing audiences everywhere.

Don't miss these legendary entertainers in concert at Renfro Valley. The Statlers will perform in Renfro Valley's New Barn Theater on Thursday, October 12, Friday, October 13 and Saturday, October 14 at 7:00 p.m. and again on Sunday, October 15 at 3:00 p.m.

Tickets are on sale now for $30.00 and $32.00, plus tax and handling fee. For reservations and information on this special concert and all of Renfro Valley's other great concerts, shows, festivals and special events, call 800-764-7464 or 606-256-2638.
