Poet's Corner

Words Hurt
Words hurt love hurts
What is one without the other?
One is good one is bad
Yet they go together
Like left and right.

Love together fight together One is wrong both are right What is one without the other? Lost trust he comes home To roost and rest, not to leave
Love goes away, some don't return
You can't have one, without the other.

Husbands and wives Should not fight You had them both now you don't. Written by: Eva Denney

TOGETHER You sit at the table

I'm in another room
Were together but so far apart
We know what the others thinking
We do it without asking.

I get up to go to you You got up to go to you
You got up to come to me
We meet in the middle
We knew what the other was thinking.

Jessie
I learned today
That you went away
Why did you go?
For you were not alon

I was here just three Miles from you Why did you need To end it this way?

You were my friend From high school to now You offered me whiskey Then I turned you down.

Now if you were here To offer me again I wouldn't turn you down And you would not be gone.

I miss you Jessie
I'll never forget you
I'll meet you someday
Then you can tell me
Why the need
To end it this way.

Don't Be

Circuit Court Division III is "Family Court"

Two years ago the Kentucky state legislature created a specialized division of Circuit Court to handle the huge volume of important family cases that pass through the court system. This is informally referred to as "Family Court."

Judge Debra Lambert and eight other judges across Kentucky were appointed by the Governor to establish and preside over this important new division of Circuit Court.

> Since her appointment Debra has presided over 4000 cases, established a new Juvenile Drug Court, an effective child-based divorce education program, and an aggressive new truancy prevention program.

Her opponent is now challenging Judge Lambert to be "Family Court" Judge. He has never presided as judge over any court case and wants the court to be a traditional circuit court, hearing criminal cases. However, by statute, this division can only hear non-criminal family cases.

> Debra's interest, experience and education in Child and Family studies, Special Education and the law make her uniquely qualified for dealing with families and children in crisis. Family Court would not be the same without Judge Lambert.

Let's keep Judge Debra Lambert Circuit Court Division III Family Court
