Last week I was in the waiting room of a certain professional office which will remain unidefutified mostly because the professional offices are prone to get defensive and hire lawyers when their establishments are mentioned in my column and I don't need the trouble of the grief nor can I take time off my regular job to deal with law suits.

off my regular got to orac who was tasts.

Lefs, just say that I was in the waiting room. Lefs just say that the young lady in froit of me had a baby what was the waiting room and that said baby was googoocing and ghabhaghing and trying to huske friends with everyone in the office and before you knew what was going on this baby and I had a conversation going on. I can goo-goo and gasa-gaa with the best of them.

and cats are two of the maybe five things on the face of earth that make me bappy these days. (Don't ask about the other three because they would tomine most head orribors would tomine most head orribors which is certainly not something we want to happen here.) And right now the psychiatriss and psychologists who read this col-umn are going. "Hummummim?" Dat's interest-ing? How else do you feel about ba-bies Mr. Adams? Have you even de-cide for bast?"?" Here's what I believe, for the record: Psychiatrists are as impor-tant to the world as mule-powerful even though I am rooting for the tindes. So anyway, this young lady had nogo in and see the gay with the suit and het Mother (bibly 8 gandma) had gone outside to do whatever people my age do when they get tired of waiting for, an appointment with someone who scheduled it for 8.30 in the morning and it is now 10 00 and there's no sight of being seen before moen. The Crowt and District Court.

The thinking is that musche they can see you sometime that day so your appointment is 8.30 AM. Then wait—and it a spiritul, tree-ponsible, unexcusable way to run government or any other business but that's what you get used to if you'de poor and way to be supposed to the same and buy into that "fair and equal justice for allowing the same and buy into that "fair and equal justice for allowing the same that they teach in civice scale to this day eyen though it sheen a lie sunce the beginning of time.

"Two changed a hundred thousand dispers in my time.", I misst and she knews that I'm exaggerating and the scanal figure is maybe half that.

"Raised half a dozen youngens. You go right on in there and only worry bout a thing."

And so, Mama goes in to see the Doe and I am in heaven with kid up in my lap playing with a little plastic-elephaps and all of a sudden she reases for a few seconds and there is an dutible "ahthhishhabhabhabh." And then it is right back to the dress pants and into my lap. Baby, per. Et like, and may well have been a gallon of baby-pee. We were sitting on a padded couch but I was scared that it might be dripping on the floor so I decided that the best being to do was spread it around so I hunkered down and moved myself, baby and all to the either side of the room to a couch twenty feel away. "Squish", I looked actoes the waiting room and the spot we had vacated was obvious. You couldn't have taken a felt market and drawna better outline of my straddle on the pale green couch. I knew I was mak-

Baby talk for "change my diaper" and I looked around the waiting room for help only to be met by the stare of an elderly lady who was not up to the task at hand but at least she snapped the daily paper out in front of her face and pretended not to look.

I picked up the diaper bag and anded as continess. Been a long time since fd seen cloth diapers but I may have gotten carried away with the angel. The product is say, though I may have gotten carried away with the budy powder. Let a just say that there was a lot of whiteness around where was a lot of whiteness around where we had been sitting when mann came back outside but nobody got suck with a safety prin.

So everybody thought it was

Been a long time since I changed a diaper and even longer since an 8 month old wallowed around in my diager and even longer since an 8-month old wallowed around in my lap perfectly happy and content and 1 was feeling pertity proud of myself antil about midaflernion it as safet meeting, when somebody asked, "what is that smell?"

I may yet have to get affidavis to prove to some of my coworkers that I didn't pee on myself, but, on the other hand. I'd thankfully do the whole thing over every day of my life. Not that I enjoy getting peed on, because I don't but having a baby int my arms gooo-gooing and gata-again and being happy is not something that happens to men my age every day. For a few ministes, it shaved more than 30 years off my life and there's not a pill the doctors can prescribe that will do that.

The first time I became aware of strip mining and how it was destroying one of the most beautiful parts of Kentucky, the mountains, some 1st General parts of Kentucky, the mountains, some 1st General parts of Kentucky, the mountains, some 1st General parts of the state o the mountainous area of Eastern Ken the mountainous area of castern retrievely where the media had reported hunger abounded. (Thank goodness I hadn't witnessed any of it). But according to all records, it was there. And the President at that time, Rich ard M. Nixon, promised there would be no more hungry children during his administration -- no one would be left behind.

My question was then, and still i with all the riches being remove from the mountains these children (Cont. to A-7)
