came to this series a bout the turn of the century.

Much of the heart and soul of racing is right here. Feat cars, great drow-pix and moustainer ranners all combined for a real life contest between the whiskey numers and the revenuers. That was part of the fibric of daily life in this area.

Someone got the does and issued a challenge of who had the fastest car and who was the best driver. Out of this became the great American or that we know and love.

Pretty soon racing began to grow so much that drivers felt like they needed an organization to keep the track promoters, thrivers and owners, in line.
