avis Taylor Burton, a senior, d in one of the two major ofserved in one of the two major of-fices at the conference as president of the Security Council. He was elected at last year's conference and was responsible for preparing sec-narios for the Security Council and presiding over the council. He also had to preside over the General As-sembly when a Security Council resolution was presented. Genna Cummins and Bonnie Briggs were proposal authors and were successful in having the pro-posal passed in summit and went to be presented in the General Assem-bly.

Aaron Anderkin served as the Aaron Anderkin served as the French ambasador on the Security Council. With recent events in the world, this was no easy task us to Anderkin fulfilled his obligation to represent France's views. Issues con-cerning Iraq and Kashmir were heavily debated and Anderkin helped author a resolution on Kashmit, that was passed with a 2/3 majority vote in the Security Council. The resolution went on to be passed in the General Assembly as well. Anderkin was one of the few delegates at the conference awarded the "Outstanding Ambassador Award."

Jesse Asher, a freshman, was also awarded an "Outstanding Ambassador Award." The entire delegation placed in the top 3 for "Best Native Attire" out of nearly 90 countries competing for the award.

As always, the delegation brought home many awards and honors from
