

Mayor J.C. Griffin was also presented with an Appreciation Award during ceremonies Sunday at Livingston Homecoming.

Courtney Taylor Payne, 2 mos., daughter of Stanley and Diana Payne was the winner of the jolly division of the Pretty Baby Contest while Bailey Sue Allen, 18 mos., daughter of Darren and Daunta Allen took home second place.

Bobby Lee McClure was presented with an Appreciation Award by Dell Ponder. Also receiving an Appreciation Award was Clifton Bond.

Larry and Kayla Shepherd were also presented with a new business award by Dell Ponder. The Shepherds then presented Livingston Mayor J.C. Griffin with an appreciation plaque.

Angie Stallworth served as MC for Saturday's events. Also in photo is Northside Baptist Church pastor Chad Bédette and, in the background, Russell Houk from the County Clerk's office.

John Ed Lyle was named "Fireman of the Year" and given a plaque denoting the honor by Livingston fire chief Sam Stallworth.

Dell and Gwen Ponder received appreciation plaques for their work to help the city of Livingston and the Fire Department. Mr. Ponder donated his work to wire the building and gave the funds, that had been set aside to pay him, back to the department so they could install nice lighting fixtures. Mr. Ponder told the crowd that the work he did was in memory of his son, Eric, also an electrician, who died several years ago while working on a job.

Livingston Homecoming committee member Dell Ponder presented Jenny Young with a new business award.
