feels. The I can remember a lady in her twenties who was a elementary school teacher, wife, and mother who couldn't feel anything as she was paralyzed from the neck down.

I know it's easy for all of us to complain about our health or other circumstances, but let's try not to forget that in most cases, there are others who are in worse condition. I try to remember that the apostle Paul, who endured many hardships, once stated that we should be satisfied in whatever state that we find ourselves. I also try to remember that God allows the circumstances in our lives for some purpose. We may not always know what it is, and may never know in this lifetime, but let me assure you, He has a reason. Let's all try to remember that we're all just human, and we all have our share of shortcomings or handicaps. Let's try to encourage, strengthen, and praise others instead of criticizing, judging, or neglecting others in the future. After all, we never know whom we may inspire.

College. Going into the debate I must admit, I was very unsure who I would place my vote for to be the next Governor and Lt. Governor. When I walked out of the debate, I realized the only real choice was Ernie Fletcher and Steve Pence.

I watched and listened very objectively to the two men debating. I had never really taken time to really think about all the issues facing Kentucky. The debate was very interesting. Though I must say, I was a bit confused by Charlie Owens who wanted to respond to almost every question by attacking Washington. I really wanted to ask him if the debate was on Kentucky issues or national issues. I was very impressed with Mr. Pence's performance. He really knew what he was talking about and it seemed to me like him and Ernie Fletcher have a real plan to fix things in Kentucky.

One other interesting point I took from the debate was that Steve Pence REALLY wants to serve Kentuckians. He gave up a federal position to be able to run for this office. He seems to truly care and I believe if elected he will use his position to benefit us, the people. However, it seems all his opposition wants to do with the position is use it to run for the US Senate. Steve Pence specifically asked Owens if elected was he going to serve Kentucky, or run for the Senate? Guess what, Owens would not respond! That sure says something to me!

Steve Pence in my opinion easily won the debate. After hearing both candidates, I can safely say, that I am voting for Fletcher and Pence for Governor and Lt. Governor. I really hope that anyone who believes in electing the best candidates will do the same.

Thank you very much,
Michelle Rowe
