Depression bipolar support group now open in Berea

The 'we fleein There the Cue The'the It is the Christinias season, a time of "peace on curit- and good will", yet there are some of its who are leading lives of quiet desperation. We may want to just sty in bed and sleep the day away. This is the face of depression. The winter months and holidays are harder for Some people to cope with says Gall Livesay of Bereas Depression and Bipolar Support Alliance.

per Alliance.

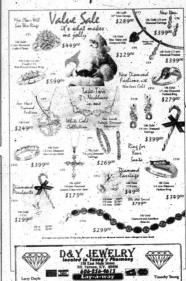

The Berea DBSA is a newly formed depression and bipolar support group which is affiliated with DBSA of Chicago, IL, with over 1,000 chapters across the country. Gail said we do have professional advisors, but our support group is for the members and is peer run. It is free of charge and is open to the mem-bers and their friends and families.

bers and their friends and families.

"delonging is a support group is a way of self-help because you talk to people that have been there and understand the problems you are dealing with. It helps you learn coping skills. Feeling low-shout yourselves is hard enough without the added sting of isolation. A support group, cannot replace medicine or threat, but it can help you on your road to recovery.
