

Over 600 people attended the annual UNITE Leadership Rally and Community Celebration last Thursday night at the Rockcastle County Middle School gymnasium. The event honored students and community leaders in Rockcastle County for their fight against drugs in their community. This was also the first year that students from Page School Center in Bell County were honored after forming their own UNITE Club in the fall. Shown above is Renee Napier who was the guest speaker for the event. Napier founded a non-profit organization dedicated to the memory of her daughter who was killed in an accident caused by drunk driver Eric Smallridge in May 2002. In her presentation, Napier tells the story of how she eventually forgave Smallwood for driving under the influence and causing the accident that claimed her daughter's life. More pictures from the event will be featured in next week's Signal.

Donor family meets son's organ recipients
Raymond and Brenda Brown met two recipients of their son, Chris Alton Bradley's, organ donation in Louisville on April 11th. In the photo are, from left: Mr. Brown, Trish Bell, recipient of Chris's heart, Mrs. Brown and Kevin Bolin, who received Chris's liver. "It's such a comfort to know our son has helped save five lives. Please sign your driver's license to be an organ donor. Chris did," Mrs. Brown said.
